MERCHANTS PROTEST AGAINST SEVERAL ORDINANCES OF CITY

Committees Appointed to Urge Changes by Board of Commissioners.

At an important meeting held last night in the assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce the Merchants' Association discussed three ordinances put in effect by the city board of commissioners that, to their minds, are detrimental to the welfare and prosperity of the city and surrounding country. The members of the body are righteously indignant at the enforcement of such stringent laws, and as an association they took action requesting the commissioners to modify the awning and meat ordinances and to rescind the ordinance requiring that farmers cannot sell produce on the main streets of the city, which became effective today. President J. J. Phoenix presided over the meeting and first announced the special importance of the meeting combined with the fact that it was the regular quarterly meeting of the association. In part Mr. Phoenix said that the object of the meeting was to consider the advisability of attempting to get a modification of the ordinance requiring awnings to stand at least seven feet above the sidewalks, and that this request was made more reasonable since the board had revoked the hog ordinance until cold weather for the benefit of the raisers. Also must be considered the disadvantages caused by the extreme and rigid enforcement of the meat ordinance, the law requiring that cattle be examined prior to death, then slaughtered in a city-supervised pen, and a final examination of the meat after death, was working hardship upon the neighboring farmers and causing the city to lose their trade. An inspection required for the health of the community was just to the farmers but the present law was entirely too stringent. The Farmers' Union, composed of representative men in the county, had taken a decided step opposing the action of the board, stated Mr. Phoenix.

The awning ordinance and its recent rigid enforcement was first given for discussion. J. M. Hendrix expressed his opinion that the association should be represented before the board and ask for a modification to the ordinance allowing the present awnings to remain during the present summer, as shortly they will not be used and many of them not worth replacing. The merchants must comply with the law, said the speaker, if it canont be modified, for they are at the mercy of the commission. He then moved that a committee of three be appointed to go before the commissioners and in the name of the Merchants' Association endeavor to secure the modification of the awning ordinance. This motion was adopted unanimously and a committee composed of J. M. Hendrix, S. Clay Williams, and J. W. Scott was detailed to appear before the commissioners today.

When the meat ordinance was taken up E. J. Justice, representing the Farmers' Union, the county organization, presented the question. He said that the farmers were up in arms concerning the laws seemingly enacted against them and were discontinuing the production of surplus meat or seeking other markets for their produce. After a deliberative meeting the union proposed to the board a modification meeting in the interest of the farmers who do not buy cattle for sale. The requirements that pork, beef and mutton sold by the farmers be subjected to an antemortem examination by the milk and meat inspector, slaughtered at a regular pen, and then subjected to a second examination after death was working an unnecessary hardship on the farmers, and was forcing them to either hunt a new market or stop raising any surplus hogs, sheep or cattle. The farmers, he said, very reasonably insist that the killing of sick animals is reduced to a minimum by allowing producers to sell only cattle raised by them or purchased not for the market at least 12 months previous. If a farmer has a sick animal the neighbors are aware of the fact and if it disappears information can be promptly sent to the market. Lastly, and the strongest point yet produced by the farmers is that they are willing that their meat should undergo a postmortem examination and the slaughtered animals will be brought to the inspector

CORONER'S JURY INVESTIGATING THE WAKE MURDER CASE

Now Believed by Authorities That L. J. Norris Did the Killing.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—The coroner's jury has taken a recess for a couple of days in investigation of the killing of J. B. Bissett Saturday night to await further discoveries by the official sleuths who are unraveling the case. They are proceeding now on the theory that L. J. Norris did the killing. They have become so convinced that William R. Yerby, husband of the woman who was out in the hack with Bissett and Norris, had nothing to do with the affair that they have turned Yerby out of jail.

Mrs. Yerby and the hackman, Haywood Penny, agree in statements that when Norris left the hack at Swain street and Bissett told him if he found a friend to come right on out to the place where they gambled once (meaning the scene of the killing,) that Norris replied "I will be there." It was Norris who reported the killing to the police and who was anxious, the police say, to turn over a revolver that he claimed to have found close by the place and this revolver proves to be a 38-calibre whereas, the bullet taken from Bissett is a 32. The police believe now that Norris purposely turned over this revolver to the police to confuse evidence as well as in the hope of seeming so open and above board about it as to divert suspicion from himself.

The father of Bissett, Henderson Bissett, has raised the question of robbery as the motive of the killing. He claims that his son had $700 that night that he had collected and that he was killed for this. The police found $38 in his pockets and do not credit the story about the $700.

The remains of Bissett were carried today to the old home place of the Bissetts in Nash county, near Bailey's, where the funeral was held this morning.

REVENUE CLERKS DO DOUBLE DUTY

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—It is learned that the position of cashier in the United States internal revenue office for the eastern district of North Carolina here, made vacant recently by the death of William B. Duncan, father of Republican National Committeeman E. C. Duncan, is being temporarily filled by William T. Delemar, who has for a long while been in charge of the desk in the collector's office that keeps the records of the tobacco manufacturer's tax.

It is understood that the other clerks in the collector's office are doubling up to a considerable extent until Collector Wheeler Martin and National Committeeman E. C. Duncan deem it the proper time to appoint or at least make public their appointments to the vacancies, especially notable being the cashier vacancy and that was caused recently by the resignation of C. M. Babbett who desired to return to his home in Eastern Carolina. In the filling of these positions there has to be at least the semblance of observance of civivl service regulations and the developments are being watched with no little interest.

It is learned tha the anti-Duncan faction of the party is determined that the Civil Service department at Washington shall have opportunity to see to it that there is no unreasonable stretching and warping of the regulations of the department to deprive eligible state organization and Morehead Republicans of their dues where theirs is the right of appointment.

Five Hundred Poor Mothers and Their Children Spend a Happy Day as Guests of Helen Gould.

Photos copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

The splendid charity of Miss Helen M. Gould, which has been frequently recorded, has taken a new form this summer. At intervals of a fortnight Miss Gould has been throwing open her magnificent farm and playground near Tarrytown, N. Y., for a day at a time to poor mothers and their children, who might otherwise not have a day's outing. Special cars transport the guests to and from Miss Gould's estate at her expense, and the visitors are furnished with plenty to eat and also with amusements. On one occasion Miss Gould's guests were from among the poor Italian residents of New York. Later the Volunteers of America made up the party.

THIRTY

Tokio, Japan, Aug. 16.—Thirty foreign tourists who were climbing the sides of the volcano Asama Yama were killed today when an eruption occurred suddenly this morning. The volcano is still in action.

GOV. KITCHIN'S MOTHER IS DANGEROUSLY ILL.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—Governor Kitchin has the deepest sympathy here in the desperate illness of his mother, Mrs. Maria Kitchin at Scotland Neck. He was summoned to her bedside last evening by telephone, the information being that she was sinking steadily. The governor caught the first train out of Raleigh for Scotland Neck last night and was still very fearful that he would not be able to reach his mother's bedside before she passed away. The governor had feared this turn for the worse ever since he left her last week to come back to the executive office where the most important stat affairs, most especially the school textbook adoption by the Textbook Commission, awaited his presence to carry it through.

FUNERAL OF PAMPERED CAT

Philadelphia, Aug. 15.—Encased in a silk-lined mahogany casket, its head resting on an embroidered satin pillow and every hair in its soft, furry coat combed carefully, Tiger, the pet Angora cat of William Gray Brooks, a well-known attorney, was buried yesterday in a private burying ground beside other cats of high degree, its resting place being marked by a stone of pearly whiteness, on which had been inscribed its name and date of death.

Tiger died after the united efforts of several veterinarians had failed to bring about its recovery. Mr. Brooks made all arrangements for the funeral. He is said to have valued the cat at more than $500.

Cholera in Constantinople.

Constantinople, Aug. 15.—A military cordon has been established around the suburbs of the city to check the spread of cholera. Fifty-six cases have developed during the last 24 hours.

RUSBY

Man Whose Employment Precipitated Wiley Charges Before House Committee

Washington, Aug. 15.—Dr. H. H. Rusby, of the New York College of Pharmacy, whose employment as an expert by Dr. Wiley precipitated the controversy and led to the charges against Dr. Wiley, was a witness today before the House committee, investigating the department of agriculture. He recited the details of his employment by the pure food chief.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, of the Bureau of Chemistry, took the stand before the House committee investigating the affairs of the Department of Agriculture. Immediately after establishing his identity as Chief Chemist the committee adjourned until tomorrow. The morning session of the committee was devoted to testimony of Chief Clerk C. C. Clark, and Solicitor McCabe, both of whom in the main charged that a number of statements made by Dr. Kebler, Wiley's assistant, were untrue.

TAFT SENDS VETO MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Means no Statehood for New Mexico and Arizona This Session.

Washington, Aug. 15.—President Taft sent his message to Congress today, vetoing the Statehood bill on the ground that the recall provision of the Arizona constitution destroyed the independence of the judiciary.

The veto of the bill kills all chances of the states of Arizona and New Mexico coming into the Union at this session of Congress.

The Senate this morning went into executive session to consider the French and British arbitration treaties.

MOROCCAN

Situation Takes Alarming Turn—Germany Refuses to Move Crusiers.

London, Aug. 15.—The Moroccan situation took on an alarming turn today when Germany refused to move her two cruisers from Agidir. The British Mediterranean fleet has started to Teraun.

BUNCOMBE TO CONTINUE WITH ROAD WORK.

Asheville, Aug. 15.—The Commissioners of Buncombe county yesterday afternoon declined to grant the request of a recent mass meeting of the citizens and borrow fifty thousand dollars for immediate extension and repairs of the roads in Buncombe county.

The Commissioners did, however, order that the extension work proceed the expense to be borne from the regular road tax. Included in the orders is the extension of the North Buncombe road from Stocksville to Democrat, almost to the Madison county line, a distance of six miles, and the Swananoa road to touch the road in Black Mountain township, a distance of six miles. The roads are to be of sand clay material. In addition to the extension of these two roads a considerable amount of repair work was ordered done by the convict forces.

MOTHER SHOOTS HER SON.

Declares She Fired in Self-Defense, Following a Threat.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 15.—What might have been a fatal shooting occurred here today, when, following a quarrel, Mrs. Caroline Howe fired four revolver shots at her son, John Semore. One shot took effect, plowing through the back of the victim.

At the third shot Semore cried out, "Shoot again!"

He was hurried to a hospital and the mother, who has been married twice, was placed under arrest. She was not remorseful, but claimed that she shot in self-defense, after her son had threatened to kill her.

Five years ago, near the scene of today's shooting, Semore killed a negro, Daniel Anderson, by cutting his throat from ear to ear. He claimed self-defense and was freed.

SOLDIERS AND STRIKERS CLASH IN LIVERPOOL STREETS

Liverpool, Aug. 15.—Military forces and striking dockmen fought all over the city this morning. In Homer street the troops charged on the mob with fixed bayonets, many of the strikers being wounded by bayonets and bullets, while scores of soldiers were hurt. The Yorkshire regiment fired ten volleys. Many of the wounded soldiers were carried away by the mob. Women took part in the fighting. Five thousand troopers are now patrolling the streets of the city.

The mob tried to burn the shipping district and fought the firemen to prevent them from extinguishing the flames.

A lockout of the street railway workers was ordered today. Six thousand carters joined the strikers, making over one hundred thousand now on a strike. The liners, carrying hundreds of passengers to America, are tied up and are unable to leave their docks.

The London government is alarmed over the situation and King George had a conference with Home Secretary Churchill. The government announces that it is determined to put down lawlessness if it takes the entire British army.

Troops Being Assembled.

Aldershot, Eng., Aug. 15.—Troops are being assembled at all points, preparatory to sending them to the striking centers. A thousand have gone on a strike in Manchester. The situation in Glasglow is reported to be somewhat relieved.

TEACHERS OF THE COUNTY TO MEET

First Quarterly Meeting to be Held on Saturday, Sept. 16th.

The Guilford County Teachers' Association will meet on Saturday, September 16, in the first session of the fiscal school year. The following notice has been issued by President E. J. Coltrane and Miss Ada Michael, Secretary:

The first quarterly meeting of the Guilford County Teachers' Association will be held at the Court House at Greensboro on Saturday, September 16, beginning at 10 a. m. This will be a very important meeting because the work of the year will be planned then, and every teacher is earnestly urged to be present so as to learn exactly what the plan for the association will be during the coming winter. Some very important advances have been made in the educational system in this county and it is very necessary for each teacher in the county to become fully acquainted with this work, and to take part in discussing fully the plans for carrying it out effectively. We confidently expect every white teacher to be present on the date above named.

WRANGLE OVER ASSESSMENTS IN DARE COUNTY.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—At Manteo, Dare county, tomorrow the Corporation Commission will have a special sessions as State Tax Commission to pass on differences as to tax valuation of property that have arisen between the local and county assessors and the County Board of Equalization. The latter has arbitrarily put down asssessments of various timber and other lands that the local assessors and the county assessor believe that they were justified in raising materially. Chairman Franklin McNeill, Commissioner W. T. Lee and Mr. Griffin, of the clerical force have gone to Manteo for this session. They left last night.

BEATTIE'S DEFENSE HAS NOT BEEN DECIDED UPON

Believed Attempt will be Made to Place Crime on Paul Beattie.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15.—The defense in the Beattie murder case is yet in the dark as to what course will be pursued at the trial, which was yesterday afternoon set for next Monday. It is believed, however, that the defense will endeavor to create the belief that Mrs. Beattie was killed by Paul Beattie.

Beattie Still Unmoved.

Richmond, Aug. 15.—With characteristic calm, Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., accused of slaying his beautiful bride while automobiling on Midlothian turnpike, on the night of July 18, stood coatless and with neck bared in a corridor on the first floor of Henrico jail yesterday and read of his indictment by the grand jury of Chesterfield and the naming of Monday next as the day for beginning his trial.

Beattie smoked a cigarette, conversed in low tones with his brother, Douglas Beattie, and later pointed out errors in the newspaper account to Sheriff L. H. Kemp of Henrico county, who stopped to chat with the prisoner while passing through the jail. Beattie exhibited not the least sign of emotion but evinced deep interest in the account of the happenings across the James River.

Douglass Beattie called to visit the prisoner shortly after noon, bearing a copy of the latest edition of an afternoon newspaper. The brother was admitted to the corridor where Beattie stood leaning against the iron grating of a cell door and handed the paper to the prisoner. The brothers were seen by persons in the jail office but their words were not heard. Henry Beattie stood motionless, while his eyes ran down the column.

Paper Misquotes Him.

Sheriff Kemp, passing the corridor, stopped and said: "I see by the paper that they've indicted you, Beattie." "Yes," replied the prisoner, "but this paper misquotes me. This is the first news I've received of the indictment and yet in the paper it says that I said: "I'm not surprised; I expected it." I could not have said that without first learning I had been indicted. It also says I dropped my guitar to the floor."

Sheriff Kemp smiled, for Beattie has not had his guitar in his cell since his incarceration. As a matter of fact no prisoners are permitted to keep musical instruments in their cells. This is a jail rule which was not violated for Beattie. He read nearly all the afternoon, but the only comment he made on the day's developments were his words to Sheriff Kemp and Douglas Beattie.

Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., has yet to exhibit some sign of emotion. Seldom, if ever, has a man so much in the public eye maintained such outward calm, such lack of show of feeling. It probably was an appropriate pseudonym when he was "dubbed" the "living Sphinx." Beattie's father visited the prisoner in the morning but the senior Beattie did not appear at Chesterfield court house.

Business Almost Forgotten.

Business was almost forgotten in the Southside yesterday and the only question discussed in the stores, offices, homes and on the streets was the Beattie case. The fact that the indicted man was born and grew to manhood in the city makes the case one of peculiar interest to the people of Washington ward.

Being identified with his father in business, young Henry C. Beattie was known to nearly every resident of the city and the action of the grand jury was awaited with impatient interest. While the residents feel the deepest sympathy for Henry C. Beattie, Sr., the feeling is strong that the horrible crime should be avenged and the criminal punished to the full extent of the law.

Many Southsiders went to the courthouse yesterday, eager to get the very first news of the work of the grand jury.

Mr. Wyatt Improving.

BUSINESS AND BUSINESS PROSPECTS.

While August is a dull month for business in almost every line, there are indications of increasing promise in industrial and business conditions throughout the country. Reports on the staple crops of the country are not encouraging, yet there is reason to believe that the crops of most sections of the United States will show fair yields. There are signs of industrial revival and there was an increase in bank clearings the past week, as compared with the same week a year ago. There was a large decrease in idle railroad cars and an increase in railroad gross earnings. Conditions in the iron market have somewhat improved; and while spot cotton has declined, cotton men understand that this is the tendency of the cotton market every season when the new crop begins to come in. The Philadelphia Record, a newspaper which watches business conditions carefully and is very conservative in its estimate of affairs, has this to say in regard to business and the outlook:

"The official crop report given out on Dednesday indicated that spring wheat and corn had suffered heavily during July. But the estimated quantities still indicated a very heavy crop of winter wheat, a substantial crop of spring wheat, a corn crop as large as several within recent years, and an oat crop larger than those of 1907 and 1908. The situation, then, if as bad as the condition estimates represent, is by no means alarming.

"But if the condition figures are as erroneous as those of a year ago they very much underestimate the crops that will be gathered. The winter wheat harvest of last year was 5,750,000 bushels greater than the estimate in August; the spring wheat crop was very close to 32,000,000 bushels greater than the August indications; the corn harvest exceeded the August estimates by more than 228,000,000 bushels, and the oat harvest was about 147,000,000 bushels greater than was estimated in August. Should the results this year exceed the August estimates as much as they did last year we shall have no occasion to complain of the yields.

"Furthermore, the Northwestern bankers have every reason for getting the best possible indications of the harvests, and a banker from Fargo, one from South Dakota and several Chicago bankers are quoted in a Chicago dispatch to the New York Jorunal of Commerce as saying that conditions in the wheat and corn fields are not so bad as the official reports represent.

"There has been some improvement in the conditions and prospects of business, although little change in the actual volume. The Steel Corporation reports an increase of business in July, and other companies are running more machinery than at previous dates this year. The New England factories are generally well employed; retail business in the West has been fairly active, and there has been an expansion in the South and Southwest. Bank clearings for the country were a little less last week than the week before, but the shrinkage is no more than natural for the season. The clearings last week were much larger than a year ago. In the last two weeks reported on there was a decrease of nearly 21,000 in idle cars, and the increase in railroad gross earnings the fourth week of July over last year was larger than it has meen for some months. The amount of business on the New York Stock Exchange las week was much larger, both in shares and bonds than a year ago, but this was due in great measure to heavy liquidation; the course of prices was downward. Rates of interest and discount have advanced somewhat.

"The Iron Age believes the pig iron production this month will show an increase over that of July, and the steel companies generally are operating more of their finished products capacity than at any previous time this year. The firmer attitude of Southern furnaces has resulted in an advance of 25 cents a ton in some markets on contracts running through the year, though the $10 price for prompt shipment has not entirely disappeared. The position of Eastern pig iron producers has stiffened on account of declining stocks and production in eastern Pennsylvania and Virginia There have been a few substantial sales of rails and cars, and the structural situation is more promising. The Iron Trade Review reports the withdrawal of low prices on plates and steel bars. The Connellsville coks market is looking up.

"Speculation in cotton futures has been more active, with erratic fluctuations in prices. Spot prices have been declining. There was a fair wool trade in Boston. In the cotton goods market the unsettled conditions in raw material restricted buying for the future. Most of the orders placed were for replenishing limited stocks. Leading clothing manufacturers operated freely in taking men's wear fabrics for next spring. Demand ran largely to serges, though carded woolens and fancy worsteds were well patronized. Some lines were sold out, and on others advances of two and a half to five cents a yard from the opening were made. Spring dress goods show no improvement. Buyers are taking boots and shoes sparingly, waiting to see what the styles will be. The buying of leather is limited. Sole leather quotations are unchanged, but holders make no effort to get the recent advances. Domestic hides continue to sag.

"Wheat has advanced moderately on the official crop report and reports of unfavorable weather here and abroad. Corn has advanced on news of hot dry weather and the official estimates. Lard has been steady, with a little advance in futures."

An exchange says that about one man in a hundred can stand prosperity. As a matter of fact about that number ever have a chance to try to stand it.

Woodrow Wilson clubs are being formed in Texas, and there are reasons for believing that if he is nominated the Democrats will carry Texas.

Congressman Hobson's self possession and self suppression is remarkable, in view of the fact that one of the "yellow perilists" has been in "our midst" for several days.

It is said that Admiral Togo is amazed at many of the things seen in this country. If Togo could remain long enough to investigate our tariff system he would be dumfounded.

Mexico has just emerged from a war to engage in politics. General Sherman's remark about the former is frequently applicable to the latter, and the chances are they will find it so in Mexico.

The big business of the country is in a bad way. Every time there is a move made to reduce the tariff on an article the manufacturers of that article come forward and tell the country that their business is on the brink of bankruptcy.

Senator-elect Vardaman is improving, as the country becomes better acquainted with his record, and he is being well spoken of now in several quarters. It is to be hoped, however, that he will not become so popular as to be spoken of as "Sunny Jim."

If President Taft vetoes all the bills designed to afford the country relief from tariff burdens he will find out at the next election how the ultimate consumer feels about it, provided he gets the Republican nomination for President.

Further up the country they go to Europe to spend the summer; down in South Carolina they go to the mountains of this State; while in this favored section of North Carolina they can remain at home unless they desire to make a summer visit.

The hot wave is said to be due to the prevalence of a hot air belt of immense area. This is the opinion of the weather experts, so it seems that we were mistaken in supposing that it was caused by the hot air artists of various kinds working over time.

As between "scientific" revision of the tariff and the plain, old fashioned kind which will reduce the cost of the necessities of life, it is not difficult to determine where the consumer will place his approval. "Scientific" revision of the tariff would no doubt be acceptable to the protected interests of the country, but plain tariff reduction without frills will satisfy the masses.

Troubles of the Cloth Trade.

Greatly concerned lest the tariff on cotton and woolen goods be reduced, The Wool and Cotton Reporter, an ably conducted organ of the manufacturers, has started an agitation for "the investigation of the retail trade," setting forth that the profits of the manufacturers are as nothing compared with those of the men who sell the goods across the counter to the "ultimate consumers," or as compared with those of the wholesale merchants from whom the shop keepers buy. It is the same cry that the "meat trust," the "bread trust," and the "steel trust" are raising against the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker—anything to turn attention from themselves. The retailer, The Reporter says, makes a gross profit of 75 per cent, or 87 1-2 cents on a cotton shirt that costs him $1.25, or 25 cents a yard on the cloth that it contains, the manufacturer's profit being only one cent a yard on the same cloth. On stockings, for which he pays $2.50 a dozen, his gross profit is 67 per cent, and his net profit 40 per cent —"Much larger than the profits of a mill, on a much smaller capital stock."

Continuing, our contemporary avers that the economies practiced in a mill are far greater than those in a department store, the mill employes working longer, with more constant and severe exertions and for smaller wages. "The retailer does too small a volume of business," the Reporter insists, "he could do 100 per cent more in most cases with practically no added expense, and thus he would make his ordinary profit and cut his expense in two," and this, in its opinion, "is the solution of the problem, though it would force many stores to the wall." Then it concludes: "But it is the only way to make lower prices for the consumer. Stores are increasing much faster in proportion than population, and because business is being divided all the time the retail price is placed higher to cover the smaller sales and still give a good profit. There are altogether too many retailers, and some method should be devised either by a city or the manufacturer to limit the number of stores to a city's size."

Granting for argument's sake, the picture painted by our contemporary, of the retail business in cloth demoralized by excessive competition and imposing a tremendous burden on consumers, is not overdrawn, the suggestion of investigation is impractical, it could accomplish no good purpose—and of that our contemporary is possibly aware. Trade journals are not always so stupid as their pose sometimes is. Retailers in selling are not as a rule engaged in interstate commerce, how and to whom they sell is no concern of Congress and the condition discribed, whether it exists or not, can not be corrected by law.

But admitting The Reporter's premises a manner of reforming the evil that might benefit both manufacturers and consumers forces itself to attention. Why should not the manufacturers sell directly to the consumers? The retailer's margin of profits being abnormally large, to cover the expenses of highly paid salesmen and saleswomen and handsome stores with splendid appointments, upon which The Reporter expatiates, is it not manifestly in the manufacturer's power to organize a system of selling directly by mail, express, and by traveling salesmen? If so much of the profit in the business of furnishing cloth to the people is absorbed by the merchant, why does the manufacturer stand by submissively and sink into lower quagmires of poverty day by day? Hundreds of American manufacturers in other lines of business are dealing with the consumers without the assistance of the middleman—why not those who make cloth? When the middleman's profits or expenses grow too large, that is the natural method of correction and in the long run it should and will work automatically.

For cotton and woolen clothmakers to sell their entire output to the consumers is out of the question, but so long as the existing method of retailing is too expensive they have the opportunity to enter the field and, underselling the stores, to eke out the miserable pittances which they say, are now the rewards of their industry. That they do not make the trial is evidence that our contemporary is in error as to the facts of the case.

The plain and discreditable truth is that the American textile manufacturer's woes are due to his want of understanding of the mercantile business—an understanding that every successful manufacturer should have. With a blind and servile reliance on selling agents, he has done their bidding for years, piling up goods without knowing or caring where and for whom they are destined—and now he is awakening to the realization that the spindles and looms producing certain kinds of goods are more than are needed—there are too many mills, as well as too many stores, for the limited markets with which the American spinners are familiar. Their selling agents, meanwhile, do not come into contact with the consumers, or, for that matter, with the retailers. Often the selling agents do not sell even to wholesalers directly, dealing with brokers. There is evidence that the ignorance of the manufacturer about the world's need for cloth is equalled by that of the agent upon whom he relies. Perhaps the experiment of selling directly to the consumer in competition with the retailer might at least serve to give the manufacturers a measure of mercantile education and they sadly need it in their business.—Columbia State.

"No, but I can curb a well," replied the stonemason.

GENERAL CARTER PLEASED WITH ARMY MANEUVERS

Commander of Troops on Mexican Border Gives Opinions of Results of That Demonstration —Wireless Apparatus First Used in Field Demonstrations.

(By VICTOR ELLIOTT.)

Washington, Aug. 15.—Major General W. H. Carter, who commanded the maneuver division in Texas during the war scare over Mexico, has returned to Washington and has given out a statement showing the improvements made in the national defense as a result of the mobilization.

The general thinks that the work of the army in Texas was worth several times the cost to the people and is satisfied that the future work of the soldiers will show the value of the investment.

Among other things, General Carter regards the achievements with the new means of field ocmmunication as worth the cost of the maneuvers. For the first time field wireless apparatus was used. This apparatus was rigged up on the backs of mules and was attached to the cavalry commands.

By means of these instruments, Gen. Carter says, he was able to keep in constant touch with his cavalry organizations regardless of the distance they might be from camp. He said that this new work would make it possible for the cavalry to always be under the direct command of the division officer.

Reels of wire were used to keep the infantry command in touch with division headquarters. Wire was laid on the ground in the wake of a marching regiment or brigade of infantry, and then necessary telegraph instruments were attached and orders flashed to the officers from the general commanding.

These reels were fitted up with a winding device, and when it became necessary all the Signal Corps men had to do was to touch a spring and the wire would recoil.

Also the sanitary arrangements were more effective at the Texas camp than they had ever been in the history of the army, according to General Carter. Out of the whole 20,000 men in the camp, no sickness of a serious nature developed. One or two cases of typhoid fever were treated, but these were contracted before the soldiers went to Texas.

Oil was used in great quantities to incinerate all the camp refuse. This product is cheap in Texas, and the army had all of it that was needed for the experiments. Rings of oil were burned around the camp, and flies were practically eliminated.

Another important feature of the maneuvers was the effect of organization. Practically none of the officers in the Texas camp had ever before been a part of a division organization. But few of them had ever seen 20,000 men in one camp and under one command. The training these officers and men received in working out the details of division movements was especially valuable.

For the first time the army used the new field artillery in actual operation. None of the guns now used by the artillery are the same as used during the Spanish-American war. The present guns are lighter but more effective than the old field pieces.

Another innovation of the army work outlined by General Carter, was the use of automobiles as a substitute for the old and cumbersome horse and mule equpiage of an army in the field. It was found that many of the heavy mule wagons could be dispensed with. The automobiles were used extensively in Texas for hospital and commissary purposes. In all marches where smooth roads were covered, the motor cars were found infinitely more valuable than the animal equipage. Much of the heavy luggage was left behind entirely.

General Carter takes the position that the use of automobiles will become more general and that when they are substituted for the older and slower vehicles, it will be possible for a commanding general to lead his men farther away from the base of supplies. So many men will not be needed either to guard the roads leading to supply samps.

Where rough roads or plowed ground was to be covered by the army on march, the general explained, mule teams would have to be used as formerly. Automobiles could not be moved over such places. However, it was demonstrated that an army of men could do without a good many of the animals that now form a part of the equipage on the march.

Taking it all in all, General Carter thinks the Texas maneuvers a fine investment for the government. He says the officers and men have gained experience never before given American troops not in actual war operations. Never since the civil war have so many men been mobilized under one command. Then too, the general says that the work of mobilization was accomplished in less time than believed possible by most of the army experts. He said that the only delay of consequence was due to the lack of cars on some of the railroads, but that if war had been actually declared the government could and would have taken the cars. Therefore, the lack of cars was not a material matter.

As it was the troops reached San Antonio before water pipes could be laid from the city to the camp. This, he says, shows what could be done in the way of moving the army in case of a hostile attack. He believes that in a week or a little more, perhaps 50,000 men could be mustered to repulse an attack.

General Carter has now resumed his old duties as assistant chief of staff. He went from the War Department to the field for the purpose of putting into operation some of the theories of the general staff which he had a large hand in preparing.

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds —the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c at Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

Loss of Time Means Loss of Pay.

Kidney trouble and the ills it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balent, 1214 Little Penna St., Streator, Ill., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time and got entirely well and was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Foley Kidney Pills are tonic in action, quick in results—a good friend to the working man or woman who suffers from kidney ills. Howard Gardner.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Greensboro People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first;

But when you know 'tis from the kidneys;

That serious kidney troubles follow;

That dropsy, Bright's disease may be the fatal end.

You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the honest statement of a sufferer who was cured.

Mrs. William Welborn, 720 S. Hamilton St., High Point, N. C., says: "At the time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, I was suffering from kidney trouble in its worst form. The complaint had been coming on me gradually for three years. There was a constant ache in the small of my back and the kidney secretions were unnatural. I suffered from headaches and dizzy spells and I slept so poorly at night that when I got up in the morning, I was hardly able to drag myself about. Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended to me that I finally gave them a trial and I cannot fully describe the complete change that took place. I gradually grew better and before long I was well. I have not been troubled since."

The Man That Fires
The Furnace

Has a lot of work to do, but a large part of his trouble will be over if the coal is right. The coal should not clinker or clog the grate. It should hold fire all night and be easily controlled by the dampers, and last of all it should be economical. Genuine Pocahontas Smokeless is the ideal furnace fuel. For sale by

A WOMAN TO BE PRETTY

Must Have Luxuriant and Glossy Hair, No Matter What Color.

The finest contour of a female face, the sweetest smile of a female mouth, loses something if the head is crowned with scant hair. Scant and falling hair, it is now known, is caused by a parasite that burrows into the scalp to the root of the hair, where it saps the vitality. The little white scales the germ throws up in burrowing are called dandruff. To cure dandruff permanently, then, and to stop falling hair, that germ must be killed. Newbro's Herpicide, an entirely new result of the chemical laboratory, destroys the dandruff germ, and, of course, stops the falling hair, and prevents baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

FRANCE BEGINS REFORM IN ARMY DEPARTMENT

All Parties in the Chamber of Deputies Have United for Country's Welfare—Reforms Will Begin in the Military Establishment.

Special to Telegram.

(By GEORGE DUFFRESNE.)

Paris, Aug. 15.—France, torn by political dissention, governed by a Chamber of Deputies whose complexion changes with chamaleon-like rapidity, and whose army is the creature of political exploitation, is at last awakening to a realization of the danger that threatens her internal peace through the activities of her warring political parties and diplomatic difficulties with her neighbors. She is reaching coalition through fear, internal friendship through danger and political efficiency through the addition of each.

Churchmen, Royalists, Socialists and Laborites have awakened from their nightmare of personal conflict, have relegated their differences to the limbo of forgotten grudges, and are joining hands in an alliance of friendship such as has not been evident for many decades. Instead of making the meetings of the Chamber hideous with passionate Gallic denunciations and advancing their own peculiar political creeds, the dissenting parties are facing the diplomatic crisis that the war in Morocco, internal trouble and unstable government has thrust upon them.

They are beginning a reform movement, the magnitude of which only future events can outline, and they are beginning it with the most essential and most neglected part of the government's department—the army.

For years ministers of war have come and gone, and for years the appointment of a head of the French army in time of peace has been left for seemingly more important matters, with the result that demoralization of the military become complete. And with the result that that body of well trained though politically maltreated men has been left to take care of itself—a condition that has split it into militantly hostile factions and has undermined its efficiency.

To remedy this condition, to bring order from chaos, and efficiency from turmoil, the new government has sanctioned the appointment of a definite head of military affairs, whose duty it is to supervise the army with the same care that would be exercised in times of war. This new Commander-in-Chief is General Joffe, a soldier of known merit and impregnable loyalty, whose duty it will be to keep the army in the high state of efficiency that French policy demands.

Already General Joffe's appointment, together with the co-operation wrought by mutual danger, has had its effect upon the military. The dissemination of socialistic propaganda, inciting soldiers to acts of treason, when called upon to protect public property endangered by strikers, has been stopped; officers with a royalist tendency have been warned of the consequence of their creed, and privates and department officials have felt the guiding hand of the master.

France seems well on the way toward rejuvenating her army through the friendship of fear.

Paris with its immense Eastern trade, its lax methods of inspection and its usual official apathy has at last brought upon itself a long invited cholera scare, with the result that press and public alike are in a state of great apprehension.

Marseilles has become infected with the plague, other towns and seaports have reported suspicious cases, and strict quarantines seems only a matter of days. Yet amid all the excitement that these reports have engendered among the people, the government itself seems to be loath to admit the seriousness of the rumors and seems inclined to fight the threatened epidemic with equivocal secrecy—a method that is far from popular with the frightened citizens, who believe frankness and proficience are synonomous.

This official equivocation was rendered still more unpopular when it became known yesterday that the Under Secretary of State for the Interior had called upon the Pasteur Institute of Paris to furnish serum and preventatives to combat the Marseilles outbreak, and when Parisian officials persisted in denying that there was cholera in Paris despite well known existence of suspicious cases.

A law to curb the temerity, rudeness and physical violence of Parisian press photographers will probably come before the city fathers of Paris within the next few days. Its instigation is due to the licensed freedom with which these men have mauled those whose prominence has made them the subject of photographic activity. In fact the furore against the methods of the devotees of the camera can be traced directly to a scene that occurred at the wedding of Mlle Steinheil to M. del Perugia at the Church of St. John the Baptist a short time ago.

So anxious were the photographers to secure good copy for their respective sheets on this occasion that they literally mobbed the bridal party, tearing the veil from the bride's head, striking the bridegroom and even pursuing the party into the church where they made such a scene that Mlle. Sanheil fainted and the photographers had to be evicted with force.

M. Bernstein, the eminent French author, and his predilection for duelling, together with the ease with which such encounters can be provoked in French journalistic circles, their inevitable farcial ending, the equally inevitable loss of time and the jocose attitude of the public, has resulted in the formation of a league to promote the abrogation of these "affairs of honor."

This league, the French Association of Provincial Journalists, met last week and passed a resolution calling upon scribes throughout the land to lend their influence, both personal and official, to discouraging further duels among the followers of the pen.

They stated that a system of boycott, applied to newspaper accounts of these affairs would soon bring the publicity loving fighters to a sense of their ridiculous appearance before a public whose interest in the bloodless duel is only attracted by the humor of the situation.

M. Bernstein, at whom the resolution was aimed, will have enough duels on his hands to consume the rest of his natural life should he attempt his usual method of retaliative publicity upon those who have censured him by inference.

Scotch Members of Parliament Wear Costume Like Comic Opera

AMERICANS usually regard the Scotch highland costume as fit only for a masquerade ball or the comic opera stage. The costume is never seen here except under such circumstances or at a Scotch picnic. The man prone to play the bagpipes will usually don kilt, tartan, sash and the other articles that form the picturesque highland garb as a preliminary to starting his droning and wheezing. But over in England it is different. The patriotic Scotchman there wears the bizarre outfit on all state occasions. The picture above shows Scotch members of parliament in a London street, where they attract no more attention than any other persons, their bare knees being accepted as a matter of course.

Honored by Women

When a woman speaks of her silent secret suffering she trusts you. Millions have bestowed this mark of confidence on Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Everywhere there are women who bear witness to the wonder-working, curing-power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—which saves the suffering sex from pain, and successfully grapples with woman's weaknesses and stubborn ills.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG
IT MAKES SICK WOMEN WELL.

No woman's appeal was ever misdirected or her confidence misplaced when she wrote for advice, to the WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, saltrheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Fariss Klutz Drug Co.

The man who makes a practice of fighting for his rights generally has a chip on his shoulder.

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guess work in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it for forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for la-grippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. MISS MOISANT GETS LICENSE.

Second Woman Pilot Sister of Aviator Killed Last Year.

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Miss Matilda Moisant, sister of the late John B. Moisant, who was killed in New Orleans last year, was awarded a pilot's license by the Aero Club of America today.

She is the second woman in the United States to receive a license under the stringent revised international rules, Miss Quimby having been the first. Miss Moisant used an American monoplane. Her "figure eights" today were executed like a veteran and her landings were unusually accurate for a beginner.

Hay Fever, Asthma and Summer Colds Must be relieved quickly and Foley's Honey and Tar Compound will do it. E. M. Stewart, 1034 Wolfram St., Chicago, writes: "I have been greatly troubled during the hot summer months with Hay Fever and find that by using Foley's Honey and Tar Compound I get great relief." Many others who suffer similarly will be glad to benefit by Mr. Stewart's experience. Howard Gardner.

THERE'S Probably a Classified Ad in this Issue That's of Even More Importance to You Than to the Advertiser Himself!

Can't you conceive how this may be true?

Suppose it's an ad offering employment that would be both congenial and profitable to you—or an ad of a place to live where life would be twice as good and livable to you as where you are now "passing" it—or a real estate ad, affording an undeniable profit-opportunity to an investor who has real estate "gumption"—or an ad through which that nearly-satisfactory servant is at last found! Would not ads of these sorts be of really greater importance to you than to the people who wrote them and paid for having them published in this paper?

BOND ISSUE SOLD.

Charlotte, Aug. 15.—Within a period of less than ten minutes the Charlotte board of aldermen last night sold $400,000 in municipal bonds to the American Trust Company and contracted for the sale of a maximum of $65,000 more.

For bonds to the face value of $300,000 issued to extend the waterworks system to the Catawba river, the purchasers will pay $301,905, or 100.635 per cent. For $100,000 of school bonds, which had not been formally advertised for sale, the same company will pay a premium of $300, or $100,300 in all. The stipulation was made that the issue of bonds for the purchase of the Charlotte auditorium, the amount being undetermined but the maximum being $65,000, will be purchased also by the American Trust Company at the same rate of premium paid for the school bonds—$300 on the $100,000. This will amount to a premium of $195. All these offers include accrued interest. The $65,000 must be issued within 30 days.

DROPS IN PARACHUTE ON HOTEL'S GLASS ROOF.

Crashes Through Dome Above Diners in Marlborough-Blenheim.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 15.—In a thrilling parachute drop from a height of 2,500 feet, made difficult by the failure of the umbrella-like contrivance to work properly, Charles Bennett, a young aeronaut, came down upon the glass roof over the dining room of the Marlborough-Blenheim and crashed through. His skull was fractured.

Fortunately there was another layer of glass in a dome over the middle of the dining hall, and this arrested his fall; otherwise he would have dropped twenty feet further to the floor among the startled diners.

As it was the crash overhead made those who were at dinner think the roof was coming in. Men hurried to investigate and found Bennett unconscious. He was taken to the City Hospital.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 15.—Liverpools action today confirmed the opinion that the market would advance but for the strike in England and the consequent disturbance to trade. The weather continutes unfavorable, clear and hot in the Western States, continued rains in the eastern half of the belt, heavy at many points.

Liverpool was 7 better than due on near months but 7 lower on spots sales one thousand. Futures advanced further towards the close which shows them about ten higher on the day.

Map indicates continued fair and hot weather in the western half of the belt and coludy showery weather in the eastern half, with a local rain storm moving on Arkansas and North Louisiana. Detailed records show a temperature for Texas of 102, for Oklahoma 98 degrees. Thirty-two stations in Texas record 100 to 110 degrees for yesterday.

Our market opened about ten higher and advanced to 11.36 for October with little interruption. There was much less eagerness to sell. The number and character of reports about crop deterioration are such that they command more mention. Detailed records show many heavy rains up to 4 1-2 inches again in the Central States. Situation in England must be improved, consols advanced 104 since this morning.

HAYWARD & CLARK.

COTTON CONDITIONS IN TEXAS AND OKLAHOMA.

New Orleans, Aug. 15.—The Dallas News' reports from 725 correspondents show improvement. These reports are of even date, Aug. 8, and indicate 102.3 for Texas. The development of the crop has been raised since July 25. Boll weevil is doing but light damage. Boll and leaf worms are reported in central and northeast Texas. In West Texas the drouth has caused much damage. South Texas cotton was damaged by heavy rains in June and July followed by drouth. Drouth is greatly damaging cotton in southwest Texas.

The Dallas News says of Oklahoma: "Condition to August 8, 110.9. Oklahoma cotton is generally large of stalk and heavily fruited. Late rains brought new growth. Insects are well worked but in some sections grass and weeds have gotten ahead of the farmers. In Southern Oklahoma some cotton is opening. The Oklahoma crop is generally late."

TURTLE A GENEALOGICAL TREE.

Shell bears Names of Finder's Father and Grandfather.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 15.—George L. Stillman, of Westerly, while strolling about a farm he owns, came across a huge turtle. On its back was carved "Paul Maxson, 1793."

Next was the name of Adam Stillman, grandfather of the present owner of the farm, with the date 1808, and under this was the name of Stillman's father, Joseph Stillman, dated 1865.

That these names and dates are authentic is not doubted, as Stillman says it is a matter of family history.

CITY ATTORNEY OF CHARLOTTE QUITS JOB.

Charlotte, Aug. 15.—At a meeting of the Board of Aldermen last night City Attorney Paul C. Whitlock sprung a surprise by tendering his resignation after serving only about two months. The resignation was not accepted, but was deferred until another meeting of the board for further consideration.

Mr. Whitlock, who has accepted the position as trust officer of the American Trust Company since his election to the city attorneyship, explained that he had been unjustly criticized and his motives in several actions had been impugned and his resignation was due to this fact. Some of the American Trust Company officials are also officials of the Southern Power Company and it was in advising the Aldermen with reference to matters concerning the latter company that his motives were criticized.

And now that his own employers are dealing with the city in the purchase of water bonds, Mr. Whitlock explained that he didn't care to invite any further criticism although he felt assured that none of the criticisms were just.

JUSTICE COLLINS FINED FOR ASSAULT IN OPEN COURT

This morning at ten o'clock a very peculiar case took place in the office of Justice of the Peace D. H. Collins. Mr. Collins had had T. A. Brannon arrested at the ball game Saturday, saying he was trying to excite the crowd. The case was set for this morning at ten o'clock before Justice of the Peace Cunningham and Justice Collins appeared at the trial in his office as prosecuting witness. Mr. Brannon, however, filed an affidavit stating that he did not believe he could get a fair trial in the prosecuting witness' own court and asked that the case be removed but that it not be removed to Justice Collins.

In the discussion that followed as to the proper justice to whom the case should be removed, "Judge" Collins became very angry and gave vent to his feelings in a series of expressions in the nature of cuss words. He finally became so infuriated that he assaulted Mr. Brannon with a chair, but at this stage of the game officers took a hand and soothed his honor's rage for a time.

This case has caused a great deal of feeling and Mr. Brannon states that he has been very unjustly treated, having been cursed and assaulted in a court of justice by the very court itself. He states that he intends making things hot for the justice. Mr. Collins was fined a penny and the costs for the assault, having immediately submitted to Justice Cunningham and pleaded guilty.

The case against Mr. Brannon will be heard by Justice Simms, at Proximity, Wednesday the 16th, at 10 a. m.

DIVORCE LAW FOR NATION

Congress May Take Up Subject of Wide Importance.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Roused by the agitation of religious denominations, members of the Senate and House of Representatives are seriously considering plans to urge the adoption of a uniform set of laws which will regulate the remarriage of divorced persons in this country.

Foremost in the movement to bar from marriage men who have been convicted of specific offenses is Senator Curtis, of Kansas, who has for years been advocating the establishment of laws which will make both marriage and divorce more difficult. He is warmly seconded by Representative Morris Sheppard, of Texas, who believes that such laws "are a crying need in this country."

The only difficulty in the way of a uniform code of laws is the difficulty in getting the consent of the States to the acceptance of Federal legislation. The plan suggested by Mr. Sheppard, which provides for the organization of a national society, which will bring the matter before State Legislatures, is generally considered favorably.

"The matter of establishing uniform divorce laws," said Senator Curtis, "is one in which I am greatly interested. It is a matter that vitally affects the social interests of the nation, and one which must soon be remedied. It might be difficult to obtain from the individual States their consent to a surrender of prerogative, so that national legislation could be enacted.

"First among the laws should be one absolutely preventing in any State the marriage of a man whose wife divorced him on charges of specific offense. To this should be combined laws which will make both marriage and divorce more difficult.

"A commission might be appointed to ascertain the best way of establishing uniform laws throughout the country."

If Congress cannot act, Representative Sheppard suggested that an organization might influence the various states to join in the plan of uniform divorce laws. He was bitter in his attack of laws that "permitted a roue whose record emblazoned the civil courts to wed a girl who is still a mere child."

"Such marriages as these make marriage vows appear mere futile symbols. I hardly think that the states would surrender their prerogatives on the subject of marriage and divorce. But I do believe that the different State Legislatures could be induced to pass uniform laws which would make it impossible for 'fly-by-night' divorces."

Various members of Congress say that if a society such as has been suggested by Representative Sheppard can be organized, they are willing to serve as an advisory committee and draft laws to be submitted to the Legislatures of the States.

MOTHER OE GOV. KITCHIN BIED THIS MORNING

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—Gov. Kitchin's mother, Mrs. W. H. Kitchin, died at Scotland Neck, at four o'clock this morning. She was sixty five years old and had three sons, Gov. W. W. Kitchin, Congressman Claude Kitchin and Paul Kitchin, the latter a member of the State Legislature.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—Before Chief Justice Walter Clark this morning Mrs. Percy Fleming, who was Miss Crouch of Washington, D. C., swore out a writ of habeas corpus against her husband, Percy B. Fleming, for their two little children, respectively four and three years old. The petition sets out that the Flemmings separated on July 14 and the children were taken by Mr. Fleming from a nurse on that day. They have been since then in custody of Dr. Flemming at Louisburg. Mrs. Flemming charges her husband with excessive drinking and doping and with being excessively jealous, and she fears he is insane. The hearings was postponed until Wednesday. Flemming was married in 1906.

CHECK FLASHER GETS $104.85.

"D. A. Thomas" Works Big Game on Merchants of Twin-City.

Winston, Aug. 15.—Some of the business men of the city as well as all the members of the police force, want a rather handsome, smooth faced, tall, and well-built man, whose age must be about thirty-five and who signed his name as D. A. Thomas. In that signature lies the story for with its aid he left the city about a hundred dollars better off than he entered it and some of the merchants here chipped in to make up the amount.

Thomas' first move Saturday was to buy a house and lot on Southside from Mr. Fred Shore and in paying for it gave him a check for $2,000 on a bank in Oklahoma. The trade was made and the papers ready to be transferred, but the matter was postponed until today and upon investigation it was found that Thomas had no money in the bank.

Thomas went to Jones Brothers Furniture store on Trade street and bought $111 worth of furniture for his house on Southside. He said that he wanted to pay all but $50 on the furniture and gave Mr. Jones a check for $100 on the Wachovia Bank and Trust Company in Asheville. It was signed by the Taylor-Norman Lumber Company with J. A. Taylor as president. He claimed that he was travelling for this company and buying lumber. He had a card with the officers of the company and his name was among them. Mr. Jones gave him a check for $30 and $8.50 in cash in change and he bought a hat from Boyles Brothers to get the check cashed.

He bought $152.50 worth of furniture from Crim-Cantrell, gave them a check for $100 on the German Bank in Louisville, received $47.50 in change and made a contract to pay the other in two monthly installments.

He bought $31.15 worth of office furnishings from Chas. E. Pleas, gave him a check for $50 and received $18.85 in change.

In each case Thomas bought his stuff after the bank closed Saturday afternoon. Yesterday morning the banks on which the checks were drawn were communicated with and in each instance the reply came back that they had never had any such accounts.

Thomas left his furniture at the stores to be delivered later, but he is probably at some distant place enjoying the $104.85 he carried away with him.

ORDER TAKEN BY AEROPLANE.

Salesman Went Up As Passenger to Get Aviator's Ear.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 15.—Eddy Lingenfelder, manager for a rubber company, went to Santa Anna, yesterday to get an order for aeroplane cloth from Glenn Martin, the Santa Anna aviator, who has just qualified for his aviator's license.

Martin was on the trial grounds with his biplane just outside the city when Lingenfelder arrived. He was too busy to stop to talk business. Lingenfelder, determined not to return empty-handed, dared Martin to attempt a flight with a passenger.

Martin accepted the challenge and the two men made a flight of 40 minutes, during which Lingenfelder, from an advantageous position behind the aviator where he could shout into his ear, talked "shop" incessantly.

Immediately they touched ground Lingenfelder produced a fountain pen and the order was signed. This is believed to be the first commercial "order" taken by aeroplane.

SECRETARY HAYES TO MAKE ADDRESS ON AUGUST 24

Will Speak at State Normal College on Occasion of County Farmers Annual Picnic—All Farmers are Urged to be Present.

On Thursday, Aug. 24, W. M. Hayes, assistant secretary of agriculture, at Washington, will be in Greensboro and will deliver an address before the people of Guilford county at 10 o'clock at the State Normal College. In connection with the coming of Secretary Hayes County Superintendent of Public Instruction Thomas R. Foust has addressed the following letter to the farmers of the county:

W. M. Hayes, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., will address the citizens of Guilford county at the State Normal College on Thursday, August 24, at 10 a. m. Secretary Hayes will discuss the conditions of the South, having special reference to the work that is being undertaken along the lines of agriculture and domestic science.

There is probably no man in this country who has given more serious thought to the development of rural life than Mr. Hayes, and I am sure that there is a treat in store for all who will go to hear him on the occasion I have mentioned above. This is the date of the annual picnic given by the farmers of Guilford county and I am writing this notice to earnestly urge all farmers, farmers' wives, and citizens generally to attend the speaking on that day and join with the farmers in their annual picnic. I am sure that it will be a day of much pleasure and profit to those who attend.

In Interest of Colored School.

Rev. J. T. Kerr, of New Bern, is in the city in the interest of the New Bern Collegiate Industrial Institute, a colored agricultural school of that place. The school is called "The Tuskegee of North Carolina." According to reports the school is doing a great work for the negroes of the eastern part of the State, having over 250 acres in cultivation. There is also a brick making department with a daily capacity of 20,000.

PREACHER HELPS "BOSS" COX

Will Head Ticket That May Divide Ring Opposition.

Cincinnati, Aug. 15.—The Rev. Dr. Robert Watson, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant in Cincinnati, a leader in the reform movement here, is to head an independent ticket in the city elections this fall. As a result the prospects of the defeat of the Cox Republican machine by the Democratic party do not seem so bright.

The Democrats say that his candidacy will mean the loss to their ticket of thousands of votes, without at least a chance of Dr. Watson's election. Leaders are pleading with him to stay out of the fight.

Prosecutor Henry Hunt, who persistently tried to put George B. Cox in jail, will have the undivided support of the Democrats, and will have a strong ticket behind him. It has looked for several weeks as though he would have an easy time in the campaign.

Mayor Louis Schwab, who will be the candidate of the Republicans, is not liked so well by the people as he was before the last election.

FUNERAL OF MISS FANNIE WOODRUFFE THIS AFTERNOON.

ELON COLLEGE TRUSTEES MET LAST EVENING

New Members of Faculty Elected--Buildings Being Renovated for Opening.

Special to Telegram.

Elon College, Aug. 15.—The executive committee of the Board of Trustees of the College met in call session in the President's office at 7:30 p. m. last evening, with the following members present: K. B. Johnson, Raleigh; Dr. R. M. Morrow, Burlington; Rev. J. W. Wellons, of the Hill, and the President of the College. Dr. G. S. Watson, who is also a member of the Board, was detained from attendance by professional duties. Many items of a routine nature were transacted and many items of general interest were dispensed with.

Mrs. Sallie E. Holland, Franklin, Va., was elected matron of West Dormitory.

Mrs. Rose J. Machen, Mobjack, Va., was elected housekeeper.

Rev. L. I. Cox, of the Hill, was elected treasurer, to succeed Dr. P. H. Fleming, of Burlington, who resigned on account of having accepted a charge at Greenfield, Ohio, as pastor of the First Christian church of that place.

Rev. J. O. Atkinson, A. M., D. D., a graduate of Wake Forest College, in the Bachelor of Arts course, and of Harvard University Graduate School, with the M. A. Degree, for many years Professor of Political and Social Science in the College, and who has for the past several years been Editor of the Christian Sun, located here has been elected to the Professorship of Political Economy and Social Science and has accepted. This announcement will bring satisfaction and delight to all the students of the College and to his friends in many states.

Mr. R. N. Doak, A. B., was elected instructor in the Preparatory Department. Mr. Doak is also to act as Athletic Director and to have charge of the baseball, basketball, tennis and track teams during the next year. He comes highly recommended and is a man of experience both in the class room and as Athletic Director.

The President was authorized to prepare and equip an infirmary for young ladies on the third floor of the West Dormitory and also to prepare an art room on that floor.

Extensive preparations are now being made for the opening, the buildings are being rennovated and everything put in a sanitary and proper condition for the opening of the fall term September 6.

SAID SHE WOULD FAINT

Mrs. Della Long Unable to Stand On Her Feet More Than a Few Minutes at a Time.

Pendergrass, Ga.—Mrs. Della Long, of this place, in a recent letter, says: "For five or six years, I suffered agonies with womanly troubles.

Often, I couldn't sit up more than a few minutes at a time, and if I stood on my feet long, I would faint.

I took Cardui, and it helped me immediately. Now, I can do my work all the time, and don't suffer like I did."

Take Cardui when you feel ill in any way—weak, tired, miserable, or under the weather. Cardui is a strength-building tonic medicine for women.

It has been found to relieve pain and distress caused by womanly troubles, and is an excellent medicine to have on hand at all times.

Cardui acts on the womanly constitution, building up womanly strength, toning up the nerves, and regulating the womanly organs.

Its half century of success is due to merit. It has done good to thousands.

Will you try it? It may be just what you need. Ask your druggist about Cardui. He will recommend it.

JUST Rheumacide IT CURES

Rheumatism and Blood Diseases
The cause of rheumatism is excess uric acid in the blood. To cure rheumatism this acid must be expelled from the system. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rubbing with oils and liniments may ease the pain, but they will no more cure rheumatism than paint will change the fiber of rotten wood.

Cures Rheumatism To Stay Cured.
Science has discovered a perfect and complete cure called Rheumacide. Tested in hundreds of cases, it has effected marvelous cures. Rheumacide removes the cause, gets at the joints from the inside, sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the bowels and kidneys. Sold by druggists at 50c. and $1; in the tablet form at 25c. and 50c., by mail. Booklet free.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, ITCH AND ALL SKIN DISEASES

Don't suffer a moment longer with Eczema, or any form of skin or blood troubles. Don't scratch or rub the skin. Just apply Hancock Sulphur Compound to the affected spots and it will stop the itching at once, and cure the trouble permanently. One 50c bottle will cure that prevalent trouble, Common Itch. Nothing cures skin troubles so quickly as Hancock Sulphur Compound. To beautify the complexion and remove black heads and pimples, use Hancock Sulphur Ointment, 25c. Mrs. Evelyn Garst, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my cheek, it would burn and itch. I was fearful it might be of a cancerous nature. I used different preparations, but nothing ever helped it. One bottle of Sulphur Compound cured me completely. I recommend it to any one having any skin disease." New York, Aug. 15.—Thirty-five hundred suffragetts arose this morning, breakfasted with tea and toast, polished their own boots and snapped a large padlock, self-denial brand, upon their respective pocket books. The cause of this procedure is the beginning of "self-denial week" in New York suffragist circles—its object, the collection of "denial money for the furtherance of the "cause."

This week of collective pennance has been long and carefully planned and the preconcerted snap of the suffragist pocketbook will have a real and well difined effect upon that class of trade purveying to the wants of women. It means that during the coming week, women of the suffragist persuasion have pledged themselves to do their own laundry work, abstain from the absorption of ice cream soda, walk instead of using cars, eat no candy, stay in the city during the week-end, clean their own shoes and gloves, eschew theatres and moving pictures, avoid the manicurists, eat twenty-cent meals and turn the money saved into the coffers of the cause to be used in the many energetic campaigns on schedule for the coming

American suffragettes have long been in search of methods and means with which to push their campaign for equal rights. They have considered every campaign known to the deciples of equal suffrage throughout the world, from the battle axe methods of England to the docile remonstrances of Japan, and have come to the conclusion that each and every one is unsuited to the American field. It therefore behoooved them to evolve something new and here it is—a week of self-denial with the cash saved donated toward future campaigns. Said campaign to be conducted with the mathematical precision of a great political fight.

In order to put the new idea into effect New York, because of its central location and the wealth of its suffragists was chosen as the first city in which to try the new scheme. The enthusiasm with which the "denial" proclamation was received by the devotees of suffrage at once insured its popularity. The city was split up into districts, leaders were appointed for the divisions made and each leader was given authority to call meetings among her sister suffrage enthusiasts, to receive pledges and to distribute propaganda.

The success of this business like way of doing things was at once evident. Thirty-five hundred names were enrolled all of them accompanied by pledges covering abstinence from all but the bare necessities of life during the sacred seven days. Estimations of the benefits to be derived from this abstinance run into the thousands. In discussing the plan, its objects and advantages, Mrs. Margaret C. Aldrich head of the New York suffragettes in the absence of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Oat, Chairman of the Woman Suffrage party, said:

"We are undertaking these seven days of self-denial for two reasons. The most obvious one is that we need a lot of money to push the cause—not for buying votes but for legitimate campaign enpenses, for educating the people to the importance of equal rights. The campaign for equal suffrage must be run on the same plan as that of any other great political campaign.

"But even more important in a way, than the amount of money to be collected is the second motive for the movement—that effort to inspire our women with the duty and the joy of self-denial with the duty and the joy of self-sacrifice for the great work that they have undertaken.

"There must be a great many sterner sacrifice weeks and months and may be years for our women to endure before they win their fight. But at least they have the opportunity now to make a beginning and to show the world that the woman suffrage party does not consist of a few leaders, but is a great, big, devoted democracy.

"All the women who have heard of the self-denial week are thoroughly enthusiastic. Women who have almost no money of their own, mothers of large families on the East Side, have told us that they will go without the occasional car ride and the penny sodas, which are their only solace in this torrid weather, in order to give the fe wcents saved to the cause.

"We will have a great many thousand dollars in our treasury as a result of this self-denial and will have set an example to womankind that will be of inestimable benefit. How well off we would be if every woman joined us in our week of self-denial."

WHEN GARMENTS HANG

SET OF SLIPS TO PROTECT DRESSES FROM DUST.

Really Sensible Gift That Any Girl Can Make—Dimity About the Best Material That Can Be Used.

An attractive though simple gift, which a girl is fashioning herself for her grandmother, consists of a set of slips to go over dresses to protect them from dust when hanging.

The materials used is dimity, as it is wide enough to make one width sufficient for each slip. Were silk employed it would be necessary to have a seam through the middle—not necessarily objectionable, but more work to make. As many of the patterns which come in dimity are dainty and pretty, the cotton stuff suits the purpose admirably.

The slip consists of one piece, two yards long. It is folded across the middle and directly in the center of the fold a circle is cut out to correspond to a neck. The best method of getting this correct is to cut a paper disc by laying a plate down for a pattern. When the paper is folded in two it will make a semi-circle. This, laid on the fold of the dimity, two straight edges being together, makes the pattern for the circle, which should be done with sharp scissors that the material shall not pull.

Muslin beading, two inches wide, having slits through which to run ribbon, is cut into lengths to fit the round hole and the beading is whipped on precisely as though it were a lingerie collar. Ribbon chosen to run through and tie in a pretty bow should match in color one of the effects appearing in the dimity pattern. The ribbon should not be put in, however, until all the sewing is done.

The neck completed, the two edges of the dimity are brought evenly together and seamed, either by hand or on a machine. The raw edges across the bottom of course require hemming and then the slip is complete. It is used by putting the hook of the hanger on which the garment is suspended through the hole or neck of the slip. The cover is wide enough to permit of its going easily over the waist and by its presence dust is prevented from gathering on the shoulders.

Another slip for the same purpose is formed by a square. It is necessary to have two widths of dimity for this, or a half square. The raw edges are feather stitched and the place for the neck is cut in the middle as in the first model.

For her grandmother's cases the girl has chosen a delicate heliotrope pattern, using heliotrope ribbons.

IMITATION OF THE BOLERO

Novel Idea That Gives Effective Touch to Almost Any Kind of Bodice.

Because the bolero is so much in fashion among the exclusives, the bodies are now made with a wide tuck in them, put above the edge of the high waist band of the skirt. This tuck may be piped or faced with another material if desired. The effect is much like that of a short bolero jacket just reaching the top of the princess skirt. Sometimes the tuck is made of the material of the skirt if the bodice is of another fabric. Again it is made of the same stuff that trims the skirt.

For instance, a one-piece serge suit that has folds of black silk on the skirt has a two-inch tuck of black silk on the bodice just above the waist line. There is a wide sailor collar of Venetian lace bound with black silk and a chemisette of white net; it is easy to see just how this gown gives the appearance of a short jacket with a net bodice and a separate skirt.

No man can be happy without a certain amount of self-conceit.

SUBTERRANEAN SEA IN TEXAS.

Discovery Apparently Confirms Geological Theory.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 15.—The discovery of a subterranean sea in Hale and Lubbock counties confirms the recent geological investigations tending to show that there is an underflow from the Rocky Mountains sweeping across New Mexico, the "Panhandle" and southwestern portions of Texas.

For a number of years it has been a theory of geologists that there is a subterranean stream from the Rocky Mountains sweeping southeastward to the Gulf.

It is contended that this stream is the source of many springs, such as those which form the headwaters of the Guadalupe river near New Braunfels, Texas, the famous San Pedro Springs in this city, the Comanche springs in Dimmit county, the Nueces flows at Sutherland springs in Williamson county, and a series of springs forming the headwaters of the Nueces and those which pour constant streams into the Devil and Pecos rivers.

More people, men and women, are suffering from kidney and bladder trouble than ever before, and each year more of them turn for quick relief and permanent benefit to Foley's Kidney Remedy, which has proven itself to be one of the most effective remedies for kidney and bladder ailments that medical science has devised. Howard Gardner.

PATRIOTS GOT ONLY 25 HITS YESTERDAY

Doyle's men—sometimes called the Sons of Swat—landed on Watson for 25 hits for a total of 34 bases yesterday afternoon and won by a score of 14 to 2. That's about all there is to it—except to chronicle the names of those who hit and the number of home runs, three-sackers, two-baggers and singles that went to each man. Every man on the Greensboro team got one or more hits, even Hauser who had not faced a pitcher but once or twice this season getting a neat single that scored a man. Walters got two hits, which is unusual for him in one game, and is quite the more remarkable for the reason that he played in only half of the game.

This man Watson is the same fellow that held the locals down to three hits a week ago and beat us very, very badly. He pitched very good ball until the second inning, but in that frame the Patriots jumped on him for seven hits and scored six men. After that Stouch made him stay on, and as one fan remarked, "Let him suffer." Not since the early days of the season has there been such a swat-fest here. The locals hit the ball until the fans begged the men to get out and stop the fun. Several did get out purposely on daring steals to second or attempts to stretch singles into three-baggers.

Dr. Walters pitched the first five innings for Greensboro and had his game won by a score of 11 to 1. In the sixth Doyle sent Hauser in to give him the first trial on the mound since he was operated on for appendicitis before the season opened. It will be recalled that Hauser did good work during the closing days of the season last year, and local lovers of the game believe he is capable of it again. He allowed four hits in four innings yesterday, and but for slow fielding behind him would probably have prevented the visitors from scoring. The first run made by the Spinners was due to errors in the infield.

The official score will show in what innings the runs were made and who did the hitting. It would take too long to tell about it all. Rickard led in hitting, getting three singles and two two-base hits in five times at the bat. Clapp got four singles in five times at the bat. Stuart in four times up got two three-baggers and a single. Carroll in five times up got three singles and a home run. Kite also got a home run, but it was not on the long clean sort of a drive that Carroll hit. Carroll's home run is open to question, for the reason that he ran slow, but he nevertheless was safe either on account of his hit or an error at home—and it was scored in his favor.

The game did not abound in any sensational fielding stunts, though the outfield work of the Patriots was clean and one or two pretty plays were pulled off in the infield. Carroll was especially quick and effective both in picking up and throwing to first. Walters, Doyle and Fuller pulled off a fast double play.

DIAMOND DUST

Carroll is the first Greensboro man to get a home run on the local grounds this year.

Greenville's Doak is out of the game this series on account of a bad arm.

Rickard hit at a rate of 1.000 yesterday; Clapp and Carroll .800; Tiny Stuart .750.

Stuart got hits for seven bases; Carroll hits for seven bases, and Rickard hits for seven bases in the general swat-fest.

Hauser is apparently in condition to help the locals on to the pennant again. He did good work yesterday and appeared to be cool and steady.

It seems to be assured that the Anderson and Spartanburg games will be transferred here, which will give ball at home the last week of the season.

Nugent was back on the job yesterday afternoon and no criticism was heard. It's only when the score is close and there are doubtful plays that there is criticism.

After all it is natural to blame the umpire. When one wants the team to win he is anxious to see everything go his way. Even those who criticise while the game is on are ready to admit after it is all over that the "umps" was right.

Kite and Carroll were presented last night with certificates entitling them to 72 bags of Bull Durham smoking tobacco for having made home runs yesterday. Several of the players tried for the $50 for hitting the "Bull" but could not send the horsehide against the taurus.

Greensboro and Winston have now played 93 games each and Winston has won 60 of the number and Greensboro only 58. It is necessary for Greensboro to win two more than Winston to tie the score and three more are necessary in order to get the pennant. This means that we must gain a game each week for the rest of the season. The simplest way is to take the three games from Winston next Monday to Wednesday.

The team will play here again tomorrow and Thursday will go to Charlotte for three games. Monday's game will probably be played in Winston, and next Tuesday and Wednesday the Twins will be here for the last games in which the two pennant-aspiring teams will battle with each other. The rest of the season will be three games with each of the following teams, in the order named: Charlotte, Spartanburg and Anderson. As said above, it is likely that all of the games will be here.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

KAISER WINS IN DIPLOMACY GAME

Germany Has the Best of France and England in the Moroccoan Embroglio--Some German News and Views From Special Correspondent

(By FREDERICK VERNER.)

Berlin, Aug. 15.—After the first burst of fear that permeated Germany as a result of the Morrocco embroglio, Teuton stolidity asserted itself and today the land is waking up to the fact that the Kaiser and the diplomatic corps were working hand in glove with the result that Germany has succeeded figuratively in twisting the tail of France and England, and also heightening the strength of the government party within her own boundaries.

In fact, what seemed at first a war cloud of blackest hue, has taken on a serio-comic color that is amusing both the supporters and enemies of the Kaiser. What foreshadowed a conflict with the armies of Great Britain and France has now settled down to a game of diplomacy between Germany and the latter with Germany in the place of vantage.

The German press, after the first flush of excitement, began to analyze the Kaiser's motive in sending the Panther to Agidir and a dissection of the implied threat uncovered a cunning that has greatly raised the Kaiser in the estimation of the people.

It was found that under the talk of war the great commercial interests of Germany, interests that have heretofore been bound by the narrow limits of German trade, have had a chance to stretch their limbs in the direction of the East, and that the claim of colonial indemnity, where allowed or not, gives German merchants an opportunity to establish themselves in African and Eastern cities which heretofore viewed their advances with suspicion.

The effect at home has been no less beneficial, for the government party has been greatly strengthened by the war scare, and it is expected that the general election will return a safe majority of the Kaiser's supporters.

One of the sights of the present and coming month will be the three "Kaiser's Parades," of the 11th and 2nd corps of guards, the first of which will take place this week, with the other following in the latter part of August and first part of September.

The feature of the parades will be the large number of lady "colonels" that will appear at the heads of their regiments.

The Empress will ride at the head of her regiment of Fusiliers before her husband and the commander-in-chief at Altona, and at Stattin she will again lead the 82nd Cuirrassiers of both of which regiments she is honorary colonel.

Queen Victoria of Sweden will appear in her uniform as colonel of the 34th Fusiliers and at the same parade Princess Eitel Frederich will ride at the head of the 12th Dragoons before her imperial father-in-law. The Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Schwerin will also appear in uniform as chief of the Frankfur Grenadier regiment.

Other royal and ducal ladies, who will be seen in uniform during the parades, are the Grand Duchess Louise of Baden, the Crown Princess of Greece and the Princess August Wilhelm of Prussia.

The situation in the Balkans continues to occupy the tolerant attention of Germany and there is little to intimate a speedy end of the rape and pillage that is laying waste the land of the Albanians. In fact, Germany views the troubleof Albania with the same lassitude that is prevalent throughout the continent.

There is, however, a faint movement abroad in the land that may develop into an active campaign against Turkish atrocities and end in an official German intrest in the matter.

This movement has been started in the valley of the Rhine by a Catholic priest named Plodoschmidt who is actively engaged in exhorting the peasants to demand a government inquiry into the Balkan wrangle. Father Plodoschmidt has enlisted the sympathies of several wealthy Germans and has opened an office for the dissemination of propaganda among the Germans, a large part of whom are devout Catholics.

The priest's efforts have been ably seconded by the Socialists who, though not in accord with the church policy, are furthering the present discussion for reasons of selfishness. They hold that if the movement gains enough supporters to embarrass the government they will be the gainers in the coming general election.

One of the richest finds in Neolithic animals of modern times has just come to light through the explorations of an Austrian archaeologist, Professer Pohlig, in Galacian Bogs. His search has been rewarded with the discovery of a mammoth and a Siberian rhinoceros both in a remarkably fine state of preservation.

The bogs of Galacia are saturated with salt and petroleum, both excellent preservatives, and it was only after they had been drained at great expense that the professor was able to get at the bodies, which still retained the hair and flesh of life.

These animals belonged to a glacial epoch but they had sunk down into the interglacial strata, in which leaves of oak, willow and ivy molluscs and insects, together with a frog and a bird have been found.

The discovery of these remains is considered to strengthen the theory that ozokerit or earth wax may be partly of animal origin.

This discovery was announced almost simultaneously with the discovery of a giant saurin, while excavating a cellar for a suburban home in Vienna. This skeleton is of the Dimontherium, a gigantic prehistoric beast over 40 feet in length. Some of the saurian's teeth were found to weigh two pounds apiece.

This sudden outcrop of prehistoric animals has had its echo in Berlin, a city whose aerchaeological exhibitions are famed throughout the world, and an expedition is now being fitted out to seet further specimens for the German museums. The expedition will start in the early part of September.

BALTIMORE GIRL WILL WED MUNSEY, REPORT.

Publisher Succeeds in Capturing Miss Robinson After Twelve Years.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 15.—After twelve years of persistent wooing, society and business circles here have received information that Frank A. Munsey, the pue publisher, at last has been successful and shortly his engagement to Miss Lota Robinson, of Baltimore, will be announced. Mr. Munsey is about 57 years old, and the young woman is twenty-two years his junior.

Mr. Munsey first met Miss Robinson, who is one of the belles of Baltimore, about twelve years ago. She immediately captured the heart of the publisher who was thought to be a confirmed bachelor. Then began a chase of hare and hound, which reached almost around the world. Wherever Miss Robinson was there also was Mr. Munsey. The chase went from Baltimore to Europe, and even to China and return, and then back to Europe several times.

It is understood by close friends of Miss Robinson that the publisher has laid his heart and fortune at the feet of Miss Robinson several times, but not until ten days ago was he accepted.

Members of the Robinson family say they know nothing of the rumors of an engagement between Mr. Munsey and Miss Robinson, and they discredit the report.

Miss Robinson is now traveling in the West. She is the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John M. Robinson of Baltimore. She and her four sisters have all been famous for their beauty and prominence in society. One sister is the wife of Mr. Crozer, a wealthy citizen of Upland, Chester county. Another sister, May Washington Boykin, married William M. Boykin of this city, in 1889, at Wilmington, Del. In 1906 she was granted a divorce on the charge of desertion. A third sister is the wife of Richard Morton.

For a time Miss Lota Robinson resided with her aunt, Mrs. Charles Poe, in Washington, and was very popular in the social set at the capital. She has frequently been reported engaged to prominent men, including William C. Whitney, and also a government official, but she has remained free.

STAND BY KEYS UNPAID.

Wireless Operators Along Lake Need Wages Held Up By Court.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Operators of the United Wireless Company are standing by their keys at nearly all of the shore stations on Lake Michigan to protect steamer passengers and crews, although many are penniless and some hungry. None have been paid a regular salary since June.

Sheldon Bacon, the receiver recently appointed by the Federal district court in Maine, where the court fight involving the company originated, is expected to relieve the situation within a few days. He has left New York and upon his arrival in Chicago will at once pay off the operators.

with the vital organs that always display the disease attached to the body. Again, for sanitary reasons, the regular slaughter houses cannot compare to the clean, open-air methods used by a farmer who slaughters his home-grown animals for the market.

The exception taken in the case of the western meats, sent here by Swift and Armour, said Mr. Justice, shows rank partiality. The government inspection of these meats does not guarantee health as at various times diseased meats have been found in the cans. If one article is inspected, others should also be subject to examination. Hams, if found diseased when fresh, can under the law, be hung in a smokehouse for six months and put on the market without inspection. Chickens and rabbits, also contract tuberculosis and should be examined for the health of the people. The stand of his constituents, declared Mr. Justice, is of interest to the merchants because the laws force them to form relations with merchants in other towns. The speaker asked that the association agree with the farmers in asking the commissioners to modify the ordinance so that the antemortem inspection shall not apply to the man who raises his own meat or buys it twelve months before killing, and he shall not be forced to slaughter in one of three houses and the inspection after death of the meat with all the vital organs attached shall be a sufficient examination.

J. W. Scott, J. M. Hendrix, Mr. Schiffman, Mr. Patterson and President Phoenix then made remarks, the concensus of opinion being that the merchants and farmers must work in harmony, and unnecessary laws should not be made to antagonize them and drive them to trade elsewhere.

Mr. Hendrix then offered a resolution that a committee be appointed to cooperate with the farmers and present resolutions before the commissioners and urge that the request of the farmers should be granted as stated by Mr. Justice. John R. Stewart, chairman, J. M. Hendrix, C. H. Dorsett and S. Clay Williams, was appointed on the committee.

The action of the board in passing an ordinance requiring that farmers must not retail produce on Elm street and between Elm and Davie was denounced in several short talks, all disapproving the injustice shown the farmers. A committee was appointed to appear today before the commissioners and ask that the ordinance be rescinded, as it went into effect this morning and is, in their opinions, utterly useless and unjust. The committee is composed of J. J. Phoenix, chairman, W. G. Balsley, C. H Dorsett and Mr. Patterson.

Although no action was taken, some discussion was devoted to the action of the county commissioners in selling the hitching lot, that heretofore has been devoted to the use of the farmers when they stop in the city. Mr. Scott declared that the result of this move was liely to be of prime importance, and asked that all give serious thought to the matter.

LASSOING AUTOS HIS FUN.

Joke Turned When Jester is Tied in His Own Rope and Jailed.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 15.—E. W. Edwards, after having lassoed several vehicles, including two touring cars, a limousine and a bakery wagon at Grand avenue and Nineteenth street last night, was captured by enraged autoists and securely bound in his own lariat pending the arrival of the police.

At headquarters Edwards said he was in training for a lariat act on the stage, and wanted to see if he had learned anything. He said he was enjoying himself hugely when interrupted.

Edwards had his lariat fastened to a telephone pole. Whenever an approaching automobile appealed to him as a suitable mark he swung the loop in great circles and droppel it over the machine. The discomfiture of a driver on a passing bakery wagon similarly treated caused him much amusement, while a crowd of several hundred people collected. Once he tried for the lamps of a limousine and brought them off with a crash. He also brought S. Samish, a business man, who was driving out of the vehicle in a rage.

The latter jumped for the amateur cowboy and threw him to the pavement, where, with the aid of several spectators, he was securely tied. The police locked him up.

BIG CITY POSTAL BANKS.

Ten More, Including Pittsburg, to Be Established at Once.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—Encouraged by the successful two weeks' trial of postal savings systems in the great post offices of New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Boston, Postmaster General Hitchcock has decided to extend the system rapidly to all the large cities of the country, and today designated as postal savings depositories Pittsburg, Detroit, Buffalo, San Francisco, Concinnati, Kansas City, Seattle, Indianapolis Denver and Portland, Ore.

Deposits in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Boston for the first five days of operation amounted to $110,000, at which rate the annual deposits for the four cities would amount to about $7,000,000. Altogether there are 426 large city post offices of the first class, and it is the purpose to have them all designated as postal savings depositories before the first of the year.

With few exceptions the pos offices of the second class, of which there are about 1,600, already have been designated and very soon the designation of third class offices will begin.

MOONSHINER SHOT REVENUE OFFICER.

North Wilkesboro, Aug. 15.—Deputy Collector Robert Henry was shot probably fatally while on a raid in the Brushy Mountains yesterday. The ball hit just above the eye, but whether it glanced or entered the brain is unknown. Two doctors were 'phoned for, and left immediately. It has since been heard over the 'phone that two horses were killed and the name of the man who committed the crime was Lane.

75 PER CENT. OF THE BIG ADVERTISERS OF AMERICA PREFER

EVENING NEWSPAPERS

Out of 400 Large Department Stores 302 say they Prefer Evening Papers and Give Reasons Why

(FROM THE LOS ANGELES RECORD)

OUT of 400 letters sent to the large Department Stores of America asking which they considered a better medium for advertising, morning or an evening daily newspaper, 392 replied. Of these replies 302 stated they preferred the evening newspaper for advera tising; 26 stated they gave the evening paper first copy when they used an evening and a morning paper. As the Department Stores are always the largest advertisers in their respective cities and are in a position to see where the results come from, their opinions, formed from experience, are most valuable. They all speak most emphatically of the advantages of the evening paper over the morning paper for advertising. Of these 302 advertisers who prefer the evening paper a large number of them use the evening paper exclusively and find the returns most profitable.

THE following statements made by the different large firms of America show why they prefer the evening paper over the morning paper:

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The evening paper is best, as it is the one that gets into the homes and stays there. Men carry the morning paper downtown on their way to work in most cases.—Wm. Barr Dry Goods Co.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—The evening paper undoubtedly is the best advertising medium, because it most surely gets into the very hands toward which all department store advertising is intended—the women of the house—and because then there is plenty of time to read, plan and digest.—Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

CHICAGO, ILL.—We spend $325,000 a year and 75 per cent of it is in the evening papers and 25 per cent in Sunday papers. Even with our great morning papers we cannot make them pay, though the experimenting has cost us $100,000.—Siegel, Cooper & Co.

EVANSVILLE, IND.—We prefer the evening paper for advertising because the housekeeper, business man and working man have more time to go through the paper in detail after the day's work is over and have time to plan their next day's shopping. Our experience is that we get quicker and more direct results from the evening paper.—Fowler, Dick & Walker.

BOSTON, MASS.—We consider the evening paper the best medium, because it is taken home and the women get to see it.—Henry Siegel Company.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN.—We consider the evening newspaper better, because we cater to the working people, and they are employed from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. and their only leisure time is in the evening, and they invariably take only evening papers, and have more time to read advertisements.—Cline Bros.

ALBANY, N. Y.—We consider the evening newspaper a better medium for advertising, because women have more time and better opportunity to read the evening papers.—Waldman Bros.

AKRON, OHIO—We consider an evening paper a superior medium. The evening paper goes direct to the homes and is more thoroughly read. It is read by men after business duties are through for the day and they are more liable to remember the advertising. The morning paper is used by office men.—C. H. Leager & Co.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—We consider the evening paper the best advertising medium, as the average woman does not take time to read a paper until her work is done.—Ed Schuster & Co.

DETROIT, MICH.—We prefer the evening paper.—Partridge & Blackwell.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—Best results from evening newspapers. The only time I use a morning paper is Sunday for Monday's business. Balance of the week the evening papers do the work to my entire satisfaction.—The Fair.

LOUISVILLE, KY.—We use afternoon papers exclusively during the week. Morning papers on Sunday only.—John C. Lewis Company.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—For advertisements containing items of special prominence likely to produce a rush, the evening newspaper serves as a better advertising medium, first, because people as a rule, have more time to read an evening paper thoroughly and note the contents thereof; second, it gives an opportunity to shoppers to select what items they contemplate purchasing and allows them time to prepare a program for the next day's shopping.—Burgen Dry Goods Company.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We prefer the evening paper week days and the morning paper Sundays only, because the evening paper is brought to the home by the member of the family who goes to business and buys and reads the paper on his way home. The Sunday paper is delivered at the home and read in the home.—Price & Rosenbaum.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—We consider the evening paper the better medium for advertising, mainly because the evening paper goes into the home and stays there when there is time for the whole family to read and consider.—Frederick Losser & Co.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—We have always given the evening paper the preference. We spend $40,000 a year for advertising and this all goes into newspapers. We use no other medium of any kind, as we consider ANYTHING OUTSIDE OF THE NEWSPAPER as money wasted.—W. H. Elsinger & Co.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—We consider the evening paper better as a general thing, for it is usually the home paper.—Callendar, McAuslin — Troup Co.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The evening paper is, in our opinion, most profitable for advertising.—The Wm. H. Block Company.

BUFFALO, N. Y,—We do most of our advertising in the evening paper.—Wm. Henerer Co.

BOSTON, MASS.—We prefer the evening paper by all means, because it goes into the homes directly, while the morning paper has a tendency to work back into the business section and does not reach the homes in such relative number as the evening paper.—Houghton & Dutton.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Where I've been, almost without exception, the evening paper is the best medium.—W. H. Milligan, Advertising Manager Field, Schlick & Co.

CLEVELAND, OHIO.—The evening paper by all means.—The Bailey Company.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—It is our opinion that the evening paper is better, as the shopper is prepared to sally forth the next morning.—Penny & Gentles.
